

Celebration of Equality Day at GMFC

A function was organized by NSS Unit of Goa Multi-Faculty College, Dharbandora to celebrate 130th birth anniversary of Dr. B. R. Ambedkar by lighting a traditional lamp followed by garlanding of his portrait by the Principal, Prof. Shaikh Mohammad Parvez Al-Usmani. Paying rich tribute to the chief architect of constitution of India, the principal in his address highlighted the extraordinary qualities of the great son of India and said that he stood for equality of every human being irrespective of caste, creed, gender, region, or nationality and it is apt that his birthday is celebrated as “Equality Day”. Further, he informed that Dr. Ambedkar donned many caps such as philosopher, statesman, educationist, jurist, economist, social reformer and a law maker. Adding further he said that Dr. Ambedkar was far ahead of his times and his thoughts and ideology are still relevant in contemporary times. Tracing his life journey, the principal narrated about his great passion for education and learning despite adversity to become one of the highly reputed statesmen and his immense contribution to nation building. The Principal urged the staff members to emulate Dr. Ambedkar’s ideals and to contribute their might towards country’s development in their own humble ways.
